HEALTH & SAFETY POLICY

INTRODUCTION

We regard Health and Safety at Work matters as vital to avoid unnecessary hazards and accidents at work, damage to the natural environment, and damage to equipment and facilities.

The overall responsibility for the Health, Safety, Environment and Fire is vested in the CEO of Seagull Maritime.

This Policy Statement, which is to be observed throughout the company, indicates the organisation and arrangements we have set up to achieve our objective of discharging our duty to comply with the relevant Acts, and it reflects the importance that we attach to the health, safety and welfare of all employees in our area of responsibility; and of all other persons who may be affected by their activities, thus leading the way to continual improvement.

COMMITMENT

As employers we have a lawful duty and moral obligation to all employees, workers, contractors and visitors. Consideration will also be given to our neighbours and the public. The Company will ensure to:

- ✓ Assess risks to worker's health and safety and communicate any significant findings to employees.
- ✓ Provide safe equipment that is suitably maintained.
- ✓ Provide a safe place of work with adequate facilities and safe access and egress.
- ✓ Provide adequate training and information to all employees regardless of their position within the business.
- ✓ Have provisions in place to guarantee articles and substances are handled and stored in a proper manner.
- ✓ Ensure the ability of our workers to remove themselves from work situations they consider present an imminent and danger to their life or health and put in place arrangements for protecting them from undue consequences for doing so.
- ✓ Provide health surveillance to employees where it is deemed necessary.
- ✓ Appoint competent persons to help comply with health and safety law.
- ✓ Consult and seek participation with workers in relation to Health and Safety matters.
- ✓ We will protect all workers from reprisals when reporting Health and Safety (or other) incidents, hazards, risks and opportunities.
- ✓ Employees, workers, contractors and visitors shall commit to do all that is reasonably practicable to prevent injury to themselves and others, and to prevent damage to property and the environment
- ✓ We will ensure that prompt action is taken to address all newly identified hazards with adequate controls as far as is reasonably practicable and we require all personnel to do likewise. This will assist with effective accident, incident and pollution prevention, including those risks posed by environmental hazards.

OBJECTIVES

To comply with these standards, the following objectives are applicable:

a) All potential hazards are to be identified and, where practicable, removed, rectified or controlled before the risk can cause injury, ill health, fire, pollution and damage to the environment, or damage to property. We expect management to implement the system and all employees to co-operate with its aims by bringing to our attention any significant hazards that may arise in the workplace areas that are not subject to existing controls.

b) Hazardous equipment is to be used and maintained correctly.

c) Where applicable, the necessary protective clothing, equipment or other controls are to be used and maintained.

All personnel are to be adequately trained so they can work safely, have information and advice disseminated in the most efficient way and are to be consulted and involved in operating this policy through a sound responsive management system.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The Compliance Manager is responsible for the formulation, development, and implementation of this policy, supported by the Seagull Maritime management team who is to ensure that adequate resources are allocated in the discharge of these responsibilities.

The Compliance Manager will chair the Company Health and Safety Committee who are to meet annually, implement and review this policy and maintain effective systems of communication to ensure that all personnel are kept informed of relevant matters.

We are committed not only to maintaining high standards but to developing a strategy for continual improvement through a positive organisational culture by a sound method of management.

- Standards will be monitored at all levels from individual departments through to specific Health and Safety objectives in Company Management Plans. Those with specific Health and Safety responsibilities are to ensure that this policy and orders regarding its implementation are brought to the attention of all personnel and visitors to the company.

REVIEW

This Policy is reviewed by the top management of Seagull Maritime at planned intervals and when significant changes that require further adjustments to the current legal, regulatory and operational frameworks.

Regular review assists the evaluation and continual improvement of our management systems.
